AGREEMENT FOR HOUSE DENIED BY J. N. HAGAN

Declares Also Home Building Association Did Not Follow Out Provisions of Law

HE ANSWERS STATE'S SUIT

Replies with Counter-claim Asking that State Pay Back Money Put in House

A new angle in the tangle of the affairs of the Home Building Association is contained in the reply of John N. Hagan, former Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor, to the suit filed against him by the state for the cost of the house the state alleges was built for him.

Hagan denies that "it was agreed between him and plaintiff that he would purchase from plaintiff under any terms whatever, a dwelling house at the total selling price of said house."

He charges that the Home Building Association never accepted his application for membership in a Home Buyers League, or that such a league was organized, and denies that any constitution or by-laws were adopted by any Home Buyers League of which he became a member. He declares that he ordered included all the "extras" put in the house.

Mr. Hagan lived in the house built in Bismarck from November 22, 1920, until November 12, 1921, he said, and now denies that he occupied the house in any other relation than that of a tenant. Particular interest is attached to Mr. Hagan's case as he abandoned the house after it became known that the cost of state-built houses would greatly exceed the estimates, and because Mr. Hagan was a member of the Industrial Commission, charged with general management of the home building enterprise.

Denies Responsibility
Mr. Hagan admits that as a member of the Industrial Commission "he was somewhat familiar with the actual business of said association; but expressly denies that as such member he was chargeable with knowledge of all the activities and conduct of the manager, subordinate officer, agents and employees of said Home Building Association," and denies that as member of the commission he approved and ratified all the acts of these employees.

The Home Building Association placed the cost of Mr. Hagan's house at $5,892.98. In his answer Mr. Hagan says: Defendant further denies that the actual cost of the house which he occupied as tenant for the period aforesaid, including the lot upon which it is erected, was the sum of $5,892.98; or that defendant at any time agreed to pay to plaintiff such sum for said house; or that said house was at any time, or now is of the value of $5,892.98.

Hagan makes a counter-claim against the state for the money he has put into the house. He charges the Home Building Association with misrepresentation. He says: "That on or about the 28th day of August, 1920, it was represented and held forth to defendant on the part of said plaintiff, that upon the performance of certain conditions and payment of certain sums of money by him, plaintiff would construct and convey title to defendant of a suitable and desirable home, or dwelling house, or cost not to exceed the sum of $5,000.00."

Authorized Alterations
"Defendant further alleges that relying upon the undertaking of plaintiff to construct and convey said home to him at the cost aforesaid, he selected certain plans or specifications for a house to be erected at a cost not exceeding $5,000.00. That at a later time he authorized certain alterations in said plans and paid to plaintiff in cash the extra and additional cost of said alterations. He further alleges that relying upon the representations of plaintiff that said house would not cost to exceed $5,000.00 to furnish with the expense of said alterations and extras, he occupied and used said house as a dwelling from about November 2nd, 1920, to November 12, 1921."

He says that by reason of "misrepresentations of plaintiff" he has paid at various times a total of $1,733.25 and demands this amount with interest at 7 per cent from the state. S. E. Ellsworth, of Jamestown, is attorney for Mr. Hagan.

Hagel never spent a cent and did not sanction the boom when started by friends. He was not able to travel home to vote.

Hagel suffered a shrapnel wound. For months a weight was kept on his left leg to prevent shrinkage. He now is going to a local business college, but still is under hospital care.

COULTER MAKES REPLY ON GRAIN GRADE CHANGES

President of Agricultural College Answers Chairman of Minnesota Commission

SAYS CHANGES WILL AID

Minnesotan Had Said Coulter Didn't Know What He Was Talking About

Fargo, April 8.—John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college, today answered an attack on his stand on grain grades which O. P. B. Jacobson, chairman of the Minnesota Railway and Warehouse Commission, made recently, according to Twin City newspapers.

Mr. Coulter plainly indicates that he does not know what he is talking about," the papers quoted Jacobson as saying.

This was regarding Mr. Coulter's statement that changes in federal grain grade regulations regarding moisture contents and foreign matter would have a far-reaching beneficial effect.

Mr. Jacobson seems to have a sudden change of heart," said Mr. Coulter today, "or he does not understand what he is criticizing." He added that M. Jacobson had advocated these same changes a year ago.

NEW OFFICERS ARE VERY BUSY

Women Now in Complete Control of Village Affairs

Des Lacs, N. D., April 8.—Des Lacs' new village government of women is now in complete control of the affairs of the city. The streets of the village have been cleaned and leveled with a scraper and the plans are for considerable grading and graveling work this year.

At a recent meeting A. S. Spicher, county commissioner was present at the village board meeting by invitation and addressed the officials on the conduct of the post department.

Mrs. H. L. Halvorsen, village chairman, states that the first definite place of legislation planned is a curfew ordinance which probably will provide for a 9 p. m. summer limit for roaming the streets at night. There is no such ordinance in the village at present, it has developed, and night life is entirely unrestrained.

The new board has held two meetings thus far and in learning the details before beginning active measures to any great extent. Mrs. Halvorsen says that a fire marshal and a street commissioner will be appointed and will likely be men as will the members of the village volunteer fire department. However, she will supervise both departments in her capacity as village chairman.

Marshal Ward, the new guardian of the peace, wears her official star but is not obliged to be on the beat all the time. She attends to her home duties as usual—as do the other women—but is always ready for an emergency call and devotes some time regularly to her new duties as do her colleagues.

The men of Des Lacs, with few exceptions, are co-operating with the women and encouraging and helping them in every way possible.

D., April 8.—Jack and Fred Oshanyk, Mike Sawitzki and Mike Elecku, veteran employees of The Washburn Lignite Coal company are making arrangements to leave this week for Ukraine and Austria, their native home. ## DEPORTATION OF SEMENOFF TO BE ASKED

GREGORIE SEMENOFF AND WIFE

Washington, April 8.—Declaring he had received charges that American men, women and children had been "butchered" in Siberia by General Semenov, Chairman Borah of the senate labor committee announced today he would endeavor to bring about deportation of the anti-Bolshevik leader now under bail in New York after arrest in connection with a civil suit.

BY PHILIP SINNOTT.

Vancouver, B. C., April 8.—Two great impulses caused Gregorie Semenov, self-styled head of the "All-Siberian" government, and leader of Cossack and bolshevik forces in Siberia, to come to America.

He, with his wife, is at a hotel here preparing to resume the journey U. S. immigration officials temporarily halted.

"In me you see the representative of the Siberian people collectively," he said. "And also, I want to disprove any charges against my wartime activities."

Semenoff, widely denounced as leader in ruthless bandit warfare in Siberia, looks far different. He stands about 5 feet 10 inches, is slightly bald, apparently in his forties and has a silky mustache.

Career Stormy.

His career in Siberia was a stormy one following the revolution and later execution of Admiral Kolchak. His storm clouds interfered with his free movements in Japan and later in the United States.

U. S. immigration officials wanted to know all about the visitor. He was quizzed about charges, made by the army intelligence service in Siberia, that Semenov troops attacked and hampered American forces during the allied occupation.

Finally he was allowed to proceed into America—but not to stay. He is listed as "in transit," and will go to Washington, D. C., and thence to a port for Paris.

His Plans.
"I hope to unite the Siberian people under a new Siberian republic," he explains. "I am going to Washington and Paris, where I expect to raise money to aid our cause."

What forces he expects to assist him in America he does not say, but frankly admits he will work with members of the old Russian Czarist party in Paris to raise funds.

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It

In the year of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved Home Treatment for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

Despite weather conditions last night a large crowd turned out to see the Lone Star Beauty Review, offering, "The Love-Lorn Trail." Tonight their offering will be of the ridiculous "Driven From Home." This is a very pretty farce and is designed to bring home to mothers the fact that they should never be too quick in choosing wives for their growing sons, as the young men may have their own ideas on that subject. Ma Klark, who played Lizzie in the Love Lorn Trail with such huge success, will be seen in the role of the mother. James Klark will play the part of the son, Ed Klark, the man of all work. Babe Klark, the girlish sweetheart and Mal Wheeler as the friend of the man of all work. The song numbers and specialties are all well balanced in this offering, and the entire piece is designed to bring forth only laughter from those who attend. One of the features of the evening will be the big country store, when 60 beautiful and useful gifts will be given away from the stage to the patrons, after the regular vaudeville programme. For real sport and excitement we know of nothing that can begin to compete with a real country store.

BILL FOR MORE JUDGES PASSED IN U. S. SENATE

23 More Federal District Judges Are Provided in the Bill in Senate

DEMOCRATS MAKE ATTACK

Washington, April 8.—The bill to provide a score more of federal judges, advocated as a measure to relieve congestion in federal courts and opposed as a political patronage "pork barrel" was passed late yesterday by the senate and sent to conference with the house.

Twenty-three more federal district judges distributed throughout the country and one more judge for the fourth circuit are provided by the senate bill, as against 22 district judges under the original bill passed by the house last December.

The senate vote on final passage was 44 to 21, with party lines broken. Eight Democrats voted with thirty-six Republicans for the bill. The opposition included eight Republicans and thirteen Democrats, the Republicans including Senators Ladd, North Dakota; and LaFollette, Wisconsin.

As passed by the senate, the distribution of the 23 additional district judges would be as follows; two each for Massachusetts and the southern district of New York and one each for the eastern New York district, Eastern Pennsylvania, Western Pennsylvania, Northern Texas, Eastern Michigan, Northern Ohio, Northern Illinois, Minnesota, Eastern Missouri, Western Missouri, Eastern Oklahoma, Montana, Northern California, Southern California, Arizona, Georgia, New Jersey, New Mexico, and Southern Florida.

POLICEMEN ARE INCLUDED

Judge Rules on Workmen's Compensation Status

Minot, N. D., Apr. 8.—A memorandum opinion on the workmen's compensation law of North Dakota has just been made by Judge George H. Moelling in the case of Wanie S. Fahler as administrator of the estate of Leo S. Fahler, deceased, against the City of Minot, in which the plaintiff asks $15,000 damages for the death of her husband who was killed by Avery Erickson, an alleged whiskey runner, while Fahler was engaged in the performance of his duty as a policeman for the City of Minot.

Judge Moelling overrules the demurrer of the defense and gives leave to the defendant to answer the complaint within 25 days after service of the order upon the defendant's attorneys. The city demurred on the grounds the policemen are not covered by the act.

Counsel for the defense in oral arguments and in briefs, presented but the question: "does the term 'employee' as used in the act, comprehend policemen and their dependents as beneficiaries under the law."

This is said to be the first time that the technicalities of the law have ever been attacked in North Dakota.

TEXAS HAS MORE BANK FAILURES THAN NO. DAKOTA

Washington, April 8.—During the calendar year 1921, 528 state and private banks in the country were closed according to a statement issued today by Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger, summarizing bank failures for the year. However he added 163 of these banks were able to reopen or otherwise liquidate their liabilities.

The southern geographical division Mr. Crissinger declared, was the most seriously affected in respect to the number of bank failures and the volume of liabilities, there being 131 failures with liabilities totaling $27,000,000 in that section.

Failures in states in which the depositors guaranty system is in operation, were: Mississippi 4; Texas 36; North Dakota 34; Nebraska 22; Kansas 11; Oklahoma 22; Washington 11.

The calendar year 1921, Mr. Crissinger said, was the third most disastrous year with respect to the number of failures of national banking system, there being 37 such failures, with liabilities of $23,677,367. The most disastrous year in this respect was 1892 when 65 failures occurred and the next was 1897 when there were 38 failures.

DISCUSS WORK ON FORKS MILL

Work which now is progressing on the Grand Forks mill and elevator project was discussed by H. G. Lyken, of the C. L. Pillsbury Co., engineers, and members of the Industrial Commission here. A steady progression of the work is expected.

It was said that the Peagles Construction Co. had been instructed to rush work on the mill building, with a view of getting it under roof so that machinery, some of which is said to be on the way, can be installed. Work on the elevator, power plant and other units is to proceed as fast as possible. Arrangements also have been made for increasing the trackage, it was said.

ALDERMEN FOR LINTON NAMED

Linton, N. D., April 8.—An alderman for each of Linton's three wards and a member of the park board for a term of five years were elected Monday in Linton's annual city election. There were two candidates for each of the positions. In the first ward, Nick Heister defeated Dick Sautter. In the

"FREAK" BILLS INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURES

Most of Them Are Aimed, However, at "Reform" Organization Workers

New York, April 8.—The Kentucky legislator who proposed that moonshiners be compelled by law to equip their "stills" with whistles that could be heard for two miles has no monopoly of the unusual in proposed legislation for the solons who sit in legislative halls of state capitals: are prone to sarcasm, irony and jokes.

Some odd bills have cropped up in the state legislative sessions now drawing to a close.

For example there is the bill introduced in the New York state assembly making hypocrisy a misdemeanor and defining it as "the act of a person who for pay, gift or other valuable thing publicly advocates and supports any legislative measure restraining free exercise of personal liberty or the act of any person who solicits funds for such support."

The measure is aimed at "reform" organization workers.

The Massachusetts legislature had before it in this year's session a bill making church-going compulsory for every resident of the state who was physically or mentally capable of attending church.

Another measure proposed in Massachusetts provided that every candidate for public office must be examined by a justice of the superior court to determine whether he is qualified to hold the office to which he aspires.

A bill in the Massachusetts legislature authorized the appointment of a special legislative committee to make an official Fourth of July visit to the Irish Free State at the expense of its members.

Some of the unusual legislation proposed is obviously aimed at what the authors regard as injustice.

Housewives who do not share in joint control of the family income found a champion in Mrs. Margaret Laird, of Newark, N. J., who introduced a bill in the New Jersey legislature enabling married women to control the wages they earn in their own homes.

Another New Jersey measure would exempt nurses from jury duty.

A third would enable innocent persons to collect from the state $1 a day for each day of confinement in jail, provided they proved their innocence.

7 CANDIDATES ARE INITIATED

Seven candidates were initiated into the Elks lodge last night. They were: Paul Wachter, P. G. Swanson, T. C. Soiverson, Wilton; Sigurd Syverson, Wishek; H. L. Thorndahl, L. E. Wamheim, R. J. Murphy.

New officers of the lodge elected recently took their places, H. T. Murphy succeeding P. R. Fields as exalted ruler. Plans for another big initiation before June 30 were discussed. The Elks membership in the entire country is nearing the million mark and the Bismarck lodge is given a quota to fill in the effort to reach this goal before the national convention.

Lunch was served.

INCIDENTS OF DAKOTA HISTORY ARE REVIEWED

W. A. Falconer is in receipt of a letter from Colonel Charles A. Varnum, 7th cavalry, United States army. Colonel Varnum is retired, and is living in San Francisco, Cal. When a lieutenant, Col. Varnum was stationed at Fort Abraham Lincoln in 1873. He was in charge of the Red Indian Scouts in the campaign of 1876, and went into the battle of the Little Big Horn with Major Reno's battalion, and is one of the four officers now alive, who took part in the Custer battle.

Col. Varnum says: "My first visit to Bismarck was in the fall of 1873. I was sent by General Custer to get the body of Blacksmith Dalton, of L. troop, 7th cavalry, who was killed by Dave Mullen, who was afterwards killed by the soldiers. I crossed in a yawl to the old 'Point' and went up in an ambulance that was sent down from Camp Hancock. I tried to investigate the cause of death, but concluded that discretion was the better part of valor. I got the body down to the boat. The river was running low, which knocked us about, and twice the coffin went overboard, but we got it ashore at last, and I was about exhausted with the effort. Those were days to be remembered. The only roof other than canvas, in town as I remember at that time was J. W. Raymond's store of cottonwood logs, at Main and 4th streets."

Col. Varnum wishes to be remembered to all old residents of the early days.

CENSORSHIP ON PRAYER DENIED BY SEC. HUGHES

Washington, April 8.—Charges of a "censorship" resulting in deletion of the name of Christ at the opening prayer of the armaments conference were denied today by Secretary Hughes. Taking his first notice of the charges which were repeated several times on the senate floor during debate on the four-power treaty Mr. Hughes wrote to Representative Fess, Republican, Ohio, that the Japanese delegates knew nothing of the omission and "of course no censorship was exercised."

The Senate's New Chairman of Finance

A Story of the Career and a Character Outline of Porter J. McCumber, United States Senator from North Dakota, Chosen to Succeed Senator Penrose as the Finance Committee's Head.

What sort of a man is Senator Porter J. McCumber, the new chairman of the Senate committee on finance, and the man who will be responsible largely, so far as the Senate is concerned, for the success or failure of the Fordney tariff bill, soon to be enacted into law? Who is the successor of Senator Aldrich and Senator Penrose in the Senate?

Picture to yourself a man of medium size, florid complexion, thin auburn hair, smooth face, aquiline profile, small piercing eyes and a stern countenance when in repose, and you have a mental picture of Senator McCumber.

His biographical sketch in the Congressional Directory is just eighteen words, less than two lines. This is a key to his character, a composite picture of his innate modesty. The ablest men are modest.

A Freckled Boy.

Porter James McCumber comes of pure Scotch ancestry. His father was a stern and canny Scotchman, strong of character, industrious and thrifty. His mother, also of Scotch blood, was a woman of rare qualities. Porter's parents lived in Illinois; and in that state of historic and Republican politics. Porter was born, February 3, 1853. When Porter was a mere lad, his parents moved to Rochester, Minnesota, and "farmed it" on the very site now occupied by a pair of famous surgeons. Here Porter attended public schools, and obtained his first and youthful knowledge of the "three R's." He was a slightly built lad, a freckled youngster, strong-willed, independent and proud. He learned early that all-pervading principle that the only way to get along with a bully is to lick him, and lick him hard; that the world is full of bluffers and the only thing to do with such individuals is to "take 'em down by thrashing 'em." It was not a peaceful course to pursue, but it was effective, and has always been, in all periods of history. Young Porter embodied the subsequent Roosevelt theory, "speak softly and carry a big stick."

Porter found himself and made progress when he adopted this principle as his own, and stood up for himself, with his fists, whenever necessary. Thus the lad grew to early manhood, and developed the qualities of self-reliance, perseverance and independence which characterized his whole life.

Farming was a struggle in those days, as it has been ever, when conducted on a small scale. Young Porter boldly started for Ann Arbor University and a legal career, when he felt himself prepared. He worked his way through the university practically, and graduated with honors.

Not Much Law Business.

Lawyer McCumber hung out his first shingle in a small country town called Lisbon, North Dakota, in the Red River Valley, then just opening. There was little law business in that section, and what there was, was supplemented with collections and loaning of money. It was hard sledding, but the young attorney was frugal and saved a little money.

With a view of improving his prospects, he moved to Wahpeton, Richland County, a more promising city, now a place of 3,500 people. Here he began his public career, covering a period of about forty years, and measuring up to most of the successes of his time.

Very naturally he entered politics from the very start. He was a strong Republican, and took part in all local and state political campaigns. He went through the greenback and free silver periods, remaining steady and firm for the gold standard. In the trying times of the eighties, and in the critical year 1896, Porter J. McCumber stood firm in the midst of wild agrarian economic fallacies.

His activity and sanity on all public and political matters attracted the attention of the Republican leaders and in the course of time, he was nominated the Republican candidate for county attorney, on the platform "enforce the law." North Dakota was a prohibition state, and Richland County a prohibition county. McCumber was elected triumphantly, whereupon he proceeded to enforce the law. This course of action, highly moral and proper though it was, resulted in his defeat for re-election by a small plurality, again demonstrating the truth in the old saying that public men who "do things" and enforce the law, dig their own graves, as a rule. Do-nothings in public life too often reap the highest rewards. They are not vulnerable.

Victory In Defeat

Yet how often the defeat of a rising politician becomes the ladder by which he climbs to fame. Lincoln's defeat for the Senate by Douglas, was the step leading to the White House. So Porter McCumber's fearless and honest course as county attorney, albeit leading to defeat for re-election, proved to be his making. He was picked by the Republican leaders, boomed for United States Senator, and elected by the State Legislature in January, 1899, taking his seat March 4, following.

In that Senate were many of the leading public men whose names were, and are today, familiar to all students of political history. There were: John T. Morgan, of Alabama; Henry M. Teller, of Colorado; Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut; Sheldon M. Callom, of Illinois; Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana; William B. Allison, of Iowa; Wm. P. Frye and Eugene Hale, of Maine; George F. Hoar and Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts; James McMillan, of Michigan; Cushman K. Davis, of Minnesota; Thomas H. Carter, of Montana; John M. Thurston, of Nebraska; William E. Chandler and Joseph H. Gallinger, of New Hampshire; Chauncey M. Depew, of New York; Joseph E. Foraker and Mark Hanna, of Ohio; and Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island.

Senator McCumber entered Congress at a time when the questions of the hour were those resulting from the war with Spain, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines were topics of public discussion. The United States was plunged into international affairs. Almost the very first act of the new Senator from North Dakota

AIDS WIFE, CHARGED WITH PLOTTING TO KILL HIM

By NEA Service

Kittanning, Pa., April 8.—Dr. John Whann's wife, Amelia, is on trial here. The state charges she plotted with Eugene Sanz, Cuban, to kill Whann.

Whann has heard the evidence. But "I have the fullest confidence in my wife," he says. "I'm certain she's always been faithful to me and I know she would never conspire to injure me in any way."

Sanz, who formerly lived at the Whann home, testified in court here that he loved Mrs. Whann and that his affection was returned.

Sanz is 20. Mrs. Whann is much older.

The Cuban declared he and Mrs. Whann laid plans to take Whann's life.

Mrs. Whann denies all this. The defense declares Sanz's testimony is intended only to blacken Mrs. Whann's reputation—that advances of Sanz to Mrs. Whann were repulsed and he now is seeking revenge.

Testimony of Philadelphia detectives has strengthened the defense case. They say when Sanz was arrested in Philadelphia he confessed he attacked Whann in self-defense and that no one else was implicated.

of the Underwood tariff, defending protection and especially protection for the farmers. He believes in protection as a national policy.

In 1916 he was re-elected by a larger majority than ever. He was at the height of his mental powers—keen, alert, active and confident. Fully prepared for the trying days of 1917 and 1918, he entered the political battle in Washington a strong and valuable leader.

Stood by the President.

Throughout the American participation in the World War, Senator McCumber stood loyally by the President. He was a one-hundred per cent American. He supported the war measures proposed by the administration, and voted for the silencing of war required to win the war.

In October, 1918, when there was talk of "peace by compromise," and at any price, Senator McCumber introduced a resolution in the Senate reciting that "there shall be no armistice until the Imperial German government shall disband its armies and surrender its arms and ammunition, together with its navy, to the United States and her associates in this war." The resolution laid down rigid conditions of surrender and armistice, involving complete repatriation by Germany. Throughout this period, Senator McCumber's speeches were the embodiment of patriotism and Americanism. He stood out against the league of nations as reported by President Wilson, and was a reservationist to preserve American nationality.

With the return of the Republicans to power in 1920, the North Dakota senator had risen to second place on the Finance Committee, and an authority on the tariff and finance. The veteran Senator Penrose was the only member to outrank him.

Senator McCumber's first battle of 1920-21 was over the emergency tariff. In this debate he crossed swords with the leading Democrats in the Senate, such as Underwood, Simmons and Harrison. Not all the Republicans were with him, but he stood his ground and made a magnificent fight to protect the agriculturists of the West and the Northwest. He won, and the emergency tariff bill became a law. It served as a stop-gap and saved many farmers and producers from a fate far more disastrous than what actually overtook them.

Senator McCumber is a sturdy friend of the American veterans of the World War. He stood back of a veterans' service bill which bears his name and would have put it through the Senate last summer had not a higher authority advised to the contrary. However, the Senator expects to see the principal of his soldiers' bonus bill enacted into law this session of Congress.

The death of Senator Penrose automatically promotes Senator McCumber to the position of chairman of the most powerful committee in the Senate, and makes the North Dakota Senator the Republican leader in the Senate in all matters pertaining to the tariff and finance.

What will his attitude at this critical time? Will he fill the bill? He is a sound Republican, a friend of the farmers, and a believer in protection as a national policy. He is not a member of any "bloc" and does not believe in any kind of "blooms." He does not believe that the so-called agricultural "bloc" will ask for any sort of protection or any sort of legislation that is unfair or prejudicial to the general welfare of the whole people.

Senator McCumber occupies a very delicate position. Upon him will rest largely the responsibility of harmonizing the different sections of the country, and the different factions on the tariff matter.

Will he fill the bill? Of course he will. He is big, broad and buoyant. He is a practical business man, not a theorist. He is not a visionary but a realist. He will be a success in his new position of responsibility, if anybody can be.

Senator McCumber has a wife, a son and a daughter. He is a devoted family man, a man of deep religious convictions, conscientious, upright and sincere. He will lead wisely and well.

HELPED HER MOTHER WONDERFULLY.

In these days of "flu," coughs, croup and whooping cough, it is well to know that every year there are used more bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar than any other cough medicine. Mrs. S. L. Hunt, 515 W. 6th St., Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me of a hacking cough, tickling in the throat, wheezing and pains in the chest. It is helping my mother wonderfully." That's why druggists recommend Foley's.

A Thought For Today

A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.—Proverbs 25:11.

The bitterest tears shed over graves are for words left unsaid and deeds left undone. "She never knew what I loved her!" "He never knew what he was to me!" "I always meant to make more of our friendship!" "I did not know what he was to me until he was gone!" Such words are the poisoned arrows which cruel death shoots backward at us from the door of the sepulchre.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Learn a Word Every Day

Today's word is DISBURSE. It's pronounced—dis-burs, with accent on the last syllable. It means—to spend, expend, pay out. It comes from old French "des," out, and "bourse," purse. Companion word—disbursement. It's used like this—"By cutting down the army the government feels it can reduce the amount disbursed for military purposes."

Tips On Business

BY ALBERT APPLE. Coal buying continues quiet. Jobbers expect April to be rather a dull month, the big consumers having stocked heavily before the strike. Bulk of the bituminous coal now offered in the open market is from non-union mines of Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Prices are being quoted only for immediate acceptance. Strike has completely stopped anthracite production. Few hard coal operators expect to win a wage cut. This branch of the coal industry is so completely organized, with so few mines of importance (about 240) that the operators will consider they have won a victory if they keep wages to the old scale instead of granting the 20 per cent increase demanded by anthracite miners.

Steel Gains.

Steel industry continues gaining gradually. Jobbers so far have not benefited much by the revival, the mills booking the bulk of tonnage direct instead of through agents, as customary until demand nears capacity. Coal strike is having very little effect on steel industry, which gets most of its coal from open-shaft mines.

Arteries.

Idle freight cars (both good-repair and bad-order) are averaging around 390,000, against 625,882 January 1. Railroads have ordered 34,000 freight cars so far this year, compared with only 23,346 in whole of 1921. Orders since January 1 are at biggest rate since 1906.

Glass Industry Up.

Glass industry steadily coming to life. In Pittsburgh district, plate glass output is up to normal, with the total glass industry producing 50 to 80 per cent capacity.

Copper Expands.

After being shut down for more than a year, mining operations have been resumed on a limited scale by the porphyry copper companies, led by Chino Copper, Nevada Consolidated, Ray Consolidated and Utah Copper. Copper is gradually reviving throughout the whole industry.

Rubber Problem.

The international rubber situation again is faced by a crisis! World surplus of crude rubber is 200,000 tons. Thus surplus is not decreasing, for production is equaling consumption. British and Dutch interests fear that the campaign for voluntary restriction of rubber output has failed to accomplish its purpose. The two interests are urging their governments to restrict output 50 per cent by law.

Over $2,000,000 Collected In State Funds For March

Collection of state funds for March, 1922, was about seventy thousand dollars larger than for the same month a year ago according to figures made public in the office of State Auditor J. C. Polndexter following the tabulation of the month's statistics. The receipts for the month just closed were $2,163,064.89. A year ago the collections were $2,093,630.41. According to employees of the auditor's office, part of the increase is due to the higher levy of this year and part to easier financial conditions.

Of the March collections, $200,041.39 were specifically for the funds of the higher educational institutions of the state while $116,746.14 was for the common schools. The collection of

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I must tell you that I am a true friend to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken it off and on for twenty years and it has helped me change from a delicate girl to a stout, healthy woman. When I was married I was sick all the time until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in bed much of my time with pains and had to have the doctor every month. One day I found a little book in my yard in Guthrie, Oklahoma, and I read it through and got the medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and took eight bottles and used the Sensitive Wash. I at once began to get stronger. I have got many women to take it just by telling them what it has done for me. I have a young sister whom it has helped in the same way it helped me. I want you to know that I am a 'friend indeed,' for you were a 'friend indeed.'"

BROADWAY LIKES "VOLTAIRE" COLLEGE GIRLS' COMEDY

CARLOTTA MONTEREY

By Alexander Herman
New York, April 8.—Success may come to him who waits—
But two New York college girls weren't going to take any chances. They got busy, wrote a play, took it to a producer, sold it and had it in rehearsal—five days later. Then they took the manuscript to a publisher, made him read it, and had it accepted in two days.

Now they are busy reaping the results of their success. The girls are Lelia Taylor, a Columbia University School of Journalism graduate, and Gertrude Purcell of Hunter College. Their play is the romantic comedy "Voltaire" in which Arnold Daly is playing the title role.

Unlike "Disraeli" and "Abraham Lincoln" and other plays of that type, it does not present a series of disconnected episodes in the career of a great historical figure. Instead, its action is confined to one day in the life of Voltaire at his chateau at Ferney, near the Swiss frontier.

HERE FROM DEULAH. C. E. Ryan of Deulah, is in the city on a several days' visit.

Dance every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 at The Coliseum. 10 Cents per dance.

Rev. C. E. Hetzler, Christian Endeavor field secretary at West Virginia, will address a meeting here on Monday evening April 10th at eight o'clock in the Presbyterian church. Everybody is invited to hear him and especially a young people. He is very interesting and well worth hearing.

In it are crowded bits of Voltaire, the philosopher, playwright, matchmaker, historian, pamphleteer, chess player and wit. There is no pretense of being historically accurate. But most of the events actually happened at one time or other in his career. The young authors took the liberty of telescoping them to suit the needs of their intrigue.

The comedy is one of the best "well-built" plays seen on Broadway this year. It is so carefully arranged that it loses some of its suspense.

First Attempt. But it is the authors' first attempt. They will do better next time.

Arnold Daly's acting could scarcely be improved. His portrayal of Voltaire, the septuagenarian, is the best thing he has done since "The Master." Carlotta Monterey is charming as Miss. Clairon, the French actress.

They are putting the play over and are making Broadway's youngest playwrights happy.

Friends who had seen her so-soy and apparently well on Wednesday were stunned by the news that flashed over the city early Friday forenoon. On Wednesday she had seemed to have a slight cold with a croupy cough, so common to childhood, but she was not really ill until Thursday afternoon, when pneumonia suddenly developed, and in spite of all that medical skill and loving hearts could do, she passed into the Better Land, quietly and without suffering in the early morning hours of Friday.

Her brief, joyous life has all been spent in Bismarck, where her winsome, happy disposition made adoring friends of all who knew her. Like a lovely flower, fading while yet in bud, or the sudden ending of the gay carol of a spring bird, so has the earthly life of this sweet child been cut off. Hearts here are left lonely, but will ever be filled with golden memories of the darling who stayed so brief a time for her short life was as beautiful as the flower, and as perfect as the bird song. We know that this innocent little life, in all its purity and perfection, has been called back to the shining shore from which it came.—"For of such is the kingdom of heaven."—(By a Friend.)

SHIRLEY MASON DUE IN NEW PHOTOPLAY

Shirley Mason, winsome and pretty, will be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre beginning next Monday in "Little Miss Smiles," a William Fox production based on a story by Myra Kelly and directed by Jack Ford. Miss Mason is seen as the eldest daughter of a typical family living in New York's East Side, upon whose young and willing shoulders falls an undue share of the family troubles, which include a shiftless father, a mother whose sight is failing by reason of long night hours of sewing, or a scapegrace brother who aspires to become a champion boxer.

The family is not far from poverty, but the father, in spite of his indolence loves his family; so there is really much happiness in their lives. There are opportunities for some delicious bits of comedy with, of course, touches of pathos.

On the same program, Fox News—Mutt & Jeff cartoon comedy.

1—LLOYD GEORGE 2—PROGRESS OF COAL STRIKE 3—TROUBLE IN IRELAND

Lloyd George's Victory
David Lloyd George, prime minister or chief executive officer of Great Britain, again has proved that he is one of the greatest statesmen in the world.

Although Lloyd George has many enemies in the British parliament, which is like our Congress, he has just made such a powerful speech in the British lower house or House of Commons, that 372 members have voted to support Lloyd George while only 84 voted against him.

That means Lloyd George now can go ahead with his plans for the economic conference at Genoa, Italy. At that conference Lloyd George hopes to settle all the money troubles of Europe.

To realize the great victory Lloyd George has won, you must understand some differences between our own government and the governments of democratic European countries.

In the United States, when we elect a president, his administration lasts four years, no matter what the administration may do or what policies it may undertake.

But that is not true in Great Britain, France and other European democracies.

There, when the administration—or "government," as it is called—wants to adopt some new policy or do something of vital interest to the nation, it usually asks the parliament or congress for a vote of confidence.

A vote of confidence is a test vote to determine whether the people of the nation support the government's plans or policies.

If the greater number of representatives vote for confidence, the government goes ahead with its plans.

But if the representatives of the people vote against the government, it is customary for the prime minister and the officials in his cabinet to resign and let a new government (administration) take its place.

Lloyd George's big vote of confidence in the House of Commons shows the representatives of the British people are strongly in favor of his policies.

Progress of Coal Strike
The greatest strike of coal miners in history began April 1 when between 600,000 and 600,000 members of the United Mine Workers of America, a miners' union, quit their work. Now more than 6,000 mines in the United States and part of Canada are idle. Railroads, and factories that use much coal have not yet suffered, because they have reserve supplies on hand.

But if the strike does not end before these reserve supplies give out, it may cause hardship.

Because it fears the strike may throw many factory workers out of jobs, the labor committee of the House of Representatives at Washington may take some action to end the strike.

Already this committee has authorized its chairman, Representative John I. Nolan, to invite union officials and operators—men who run the mines—to meet and settle their troubles.

John I. Lewis, president of the union organization, the United Mine Workers of America, says he will add the government in bringing about a meeting of this kind.

Trouble in Ireland
Though a treaty has been signed between Great Britain and Ireland, making southern Ireland the Irish Free State, there still is much trouble in Ireland.

The provisional government, or government recognized under the Free State treaty, is trying to rule Ireland. This government is headed by Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins.

Meanwhile Eamon de Valera, a leader in the Irish revolution and known as the president of the Irish republic before the treaty was signed, refuses to recognize the government of Griffith and Collins.

DeValera says the treaty was signed illegally. He says he still is president of the Irish republic and commander-in-chief of the republican army.

DeValera has many followers who support him in his views. Some of his followers are waging open war on the provisional government, fighting and seizing barracks.

More trouble has been made by a boundary dispute between the Free State and Ulster, or northern Ireland. Many shots have been fired across the disputed border by followers on both sides. Several have been killed and wounded.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

IT KILLED THE CAT, BUT—

New York is installing fire alarm boxes without glass doors. This will increase the number of false alarms rung in by mischief-makers who "obey that impulse."

The Paul Pry's will find it hard to resist a fire alarm handle dangling free outside the red box, just as they cannot resist touching wet paint with their fingers to see if it's dry, or poking an umbrella tip in a freshly laid concrete sidewalk.

Shrewd psychologists a long time ago realized that the Paul Pry instinct could best be kept in bounds by making it necessary to break a pane of glass before ringing the fire engines.

Behold little Willie, embryonic Paul Pry, marveling at spring, pestering pa with questions about what makes the grass grow, why the days are getting longer, where the wind goes to when it stops blowing.

Later on, little Willie will be testing dryness of fresh paint, taking his watch apart to see if he can get it together again, trying to eat everything that looks as if his jaws could master it. Children try to taste their way to knowledge.

Be thankful for this. Curiosity is the force that has produced all comforts, all knowledge, all civilization.

All forms of animal life constantly are trying to improve themselves. The desire is manifested by their curiosity.

Go into the woods. Start chopping. In half an hour, if you look about, you'll see an army of eyes among the trees—curious animals, flocking to see what it's all about.

Trapper, laid up with a broken leg in a trail cabin of the Yukon, drives a short pole in the snow and to it fastens a rag. Animals will see the rag flapping in the wind and, steered by curiosity, will come from miles away to investigate. That gets them within range of the hunter's rifle.

Animal trainers differ, as to whether menagerie monkeys or human spectators get the most fun from watching each other.

The instinct of curiosity is so powerfully developed in man that anything dangerous has to be made fool-proof.

Put a "Danger—Stay Out" sign on a shed containing dynamite. Nearly every one that passes will either force the door with a club or peer through cracks and knotholes to learn what's inside.

Wisdom, handed down from the experience of the past, is disrespected—because the average person's curiosity impels him to find out for himself. Thus youth has it fling, the bootlegger constantly has a new crop of customers—and, in general, man learns very little from experience.

The motive force of life is Paul Pry instinct.

YOUR SECRET THOUGHT

In your struggle to make more money and achieve your secret, are you making full use of the thought-force that can be generated by that dynamo, your brain?

Thought is the most powerful force used by man. Without it, failure is almost a certainty.

Ask any self-made man what made him successful. He will give you many reasons. All can be summed up in the one word, thought.

All of the material things used by man in his civilization are merely manifestations of human thought.

For instance, here is a mass of clay dug out of the ground.

One man, whose thoughts are about buildings, will turn that clay into bricks. Another will turn the bricks into a finished house, skyscraper or pavement.

Still another man, whose thought concentrates on metals, will take the same clay and from it extract aluminum.

A fourth man, with artistic thoughts, will shape the clay into a statue. A fifth will turn it into a dish. A sixth, with a medical brain, may decide it has curative powers when applied as a clay pack.

Thought is powerful because it is man's great creative force.

All of man's creations exist in thought form before they are translated into material.

Buildings exist in the brains of architects and contractors before they become physical accomplishments.

The same principle is true of all human activity.

Man's scientific agriculture and cold storage are checking the ravages of famine. We have cyclone cellars, counteracting the wind. Freezing cold loses its terrors before modern furnace systems. Law curbs theft and murders by our fellows.

Germans are about the only Great Destroyer still at large. Science slowly conquers them. Nineteenth of their death-dealing power is due to human carelessness—taking chances with health, over-eating, worry, exposure, exhaustion.

With the old-time leaders gone, mass action is the motive force of modern times, says Earl Barnes, lecturer.

"We don't think of Rockefeller in oil, or Carnegie in steel. We just think of great companies and syndicates. This tendency toward group action is one of the strongest characteristics of our day."

To a certain extent this is true. But the giants still exist, though rarely heard of. The one-man idea has been modified in organization, but the one man is still present. There is always a personality that sways a group of leaders. If not, the group is headed for the ashheap.

DESTROYER

The gates of the mysterious Hereafter open to receive former Emperor Charles of Austria, exiled on the island of Madeira. He has been given the last rites by the bishop of Funchal.

Charles, before his downfall, was one of the rulers of the earth. Yet a few flu germs—so small that millions of them could hold a dance on a dime—crept into his system and had him at their mercy.

King or slave, rich man or beggar, all look alike to the germs. They are no respecters of persons. Watching their havoc, you realize that men are mighty only among themselves, in their own estimation—vanity.

SYSTEM OF ECONOMICS

Our system of economics is like a watch that always has something wrong with it. By the time we get a broken wheel fixed, a new main-spring is needed.

When times are good and mines are working steadily, shortage of coal cars develops. When car supply gets 25 per cent below normal, coal prices advance 16 per cent. When there are only half as many cars as are needed, coal price advances 40 per cent above what it should be.

When there are more than enough cars, it means part of the mines are shut down, miners idle.

INTERNATIONAL TENNIS COURT

We would not be astonished if the tennis court might be as effective as the international court of justice gravely formed by governments and lawyers versed in international law. The tennis court may lead the way to a real League of Nations with world federation on humanitarian lines as the goal. A different sort of genus meets on the tennis court to what is found in the political court that has been seeking in vain to unite nations and races for the common good. The tennis court is national and yet it is international. It is first of all individualistic, however, in that it accords honor to whom honor is due, not wholly to the nation but to the player.

Fourteen nations have entered the lists for this year; and in a way, a friendly, sportsmanlike way, it will be thirteen to one. The United States is in possession of the trophy and the team that wins from the American representatives is pretty sure of getting the cup. Nearly all the nations of importance within the economic circle are to be represented at the sport that is free from professionalism and is as clean as the proverbial house's tooth. The number of entries for this season is the largest on record, as was to be expected; tennis is growing in popularity everywhere as a healthy, sane game, that a great many people may engage in.

The international effort this summer will unite the nations and they will see things differently; and there is nothing like true sportsmanship to bring about an under-the-skin understanding. —Denver Rocky Mountain News.

The city man's backyard garden and the farmer's crops are matured and harvested in thought form before the real seeds are even planted or the soil prepared.

The careers of successful men, as they near the crucial point, are created in thought form—planned out to the last minute detail—before they can begin materializing.

In your brain are many secret thoughts—inner desires. These are creations, forms of success, struggling to be born in clear-cut thought form, in anticipation of actual accomplishment.

To perfect these brain creations, strive to develop imagination, man's master-creative-force.

CARELESSNESS

Man has conquered the wild animals, built levees to check destroying floods, imprisoned electricity and insulated himself against the death locked up in it.

ANOTHER GOOD THING GONE WRONG

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After eight years of married life, MARK SABLE gradually realizes that he is neither understood by his prosaic and snobbish wife, MABEL, nor by his colleagues in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre. A promised partnership in the business has been denied him and promised to.

TWYNING, a jealous associate. Suddenly an old sweetheart, NONA, now the wife of dashing Lord Tybar, returns after two years of travel. Mabel becomes suspicious when Nona without Sabre an informal invitation to visit her.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"An invitation? whenever didn't she write me?" "Whyever" again! "May I see it?"

He took the letter from his pocket and handed it to her. "It's not exactly an invitation—not formal."

She did what he called "flicked" the letter out of its envelope. He watched her reading it and in his mind he could see as perfectly as she with her eyes, the odd, neat script; in his mind he read it with her, word by word.

Dear Marco—We're back. We've been from China to Peru—almost. Come up one day and be bored about it. How are you? Nona.

His thought was, "Damn the letter!"

Mabel handed it back, without returning it to its envelope. She said, "No, it's not formal."

She snipped three roses with astonishing swiftness—snip, snip, snip!

In half an hour the shallow basket was beautiful with fragrant blooms and Mabel thought she had enough. "Well, that's that," said Sabre as they re-entered the morning room.

She took up a creamy rose and snipped off a fragment of stalk over the saucer. "Why does she call you 'Marco'?"

He was utterly taken aback. If the question had come from anyone but Mabel, he would have quite failed to connect it with the letter. But here had distinctly been an "incident" over the letter, though so far closed as he had imagined, that he was completely surprised.

He said, "What Nona?"

"Yes, Nona, if you like. Lady Tybar."

"Why, she always has. You know that."

Mabel put the rose into a specimen vase with immense care, and touched a speck off its petals with her fingers. "I really didn't."

"Mabel, you know you do. You must have heard her."

"Well, I may have. But long ago I certainly didn't know she used it in letters."

He felt he was growing angry. "What on earth's the difference?"

"It seems to me there's a great deal of difference. I didn't know she wrote you letters."

He was angry. "Damn it, she doesn't write me letters."

She shrugged her shoulders. "You seem to get them, anyway."

Maddening!

And then he thought, "I'm not going to let it be maddening. This is just what happens." He said, "Well, this is silly. I've known her—we've known one another—for years, since we were children, pretty well. She's called me by my Christian name since I can remember. You must have heard her. We don't see much of her—perhaps you haven't. I thought you had. Anyway, dash the thing! What does it matter?"

"It doesn't matter"—she launched a blow into a vase—"a bit. I only think it's funny, that's all."

What, care a little snuff? He thought it was over. But it wasn't.

no one on earth (she felt) but he would have made. Anyone else would have said boldly, blusteringly, "Of course I would have told you about the letter." She would have liked that. She would have disbelieved it and she could have said, and enjoyed saying, she disbelieved it. Or anyone else would have said furiously, "No, I'm damned if I'd have shown you the letter." She would have liked that. It would have affirmed her suspicions that there was "something in it," and she wished her suspicions to be affirmed. It would have been something definite. Something justifiably incentive of anger, of resentment, of jealousy. Something she could understand. She could not express her feelings in words. She expressed them in action. She arose quietly, and left the room. The whole of her emotions she put into the slam of the door behind her. The ornaments shivered. A cup sprang off brackets and dashed itself to pieces on the floor.

CHAPTER IV

These events were on a Monday. On the following Thursday Nona came to see him at his office.

She stood still immediately she was across the threshold and the door closed behind her. She was smiling as though she felt herself to be up to some lark. "Hello, Marco. Don't you hate me for coming in here like this?"

"It's jolly surprising."

"That's another way of saying it. Now if you'd said it was surprisingly jolly! Well, shake hands, Marco, and pretend you're glad."

He laughed and put out his hand. But she delayed response; she first slipped off the gawkiety she was wearing and then gave him her hand. "There!" she said.

"There!" It was as though she had now done something she much wanted to do. As she says, "There!" on at last sitting down after much fatigue.

She tossed her gawkiety on to a chair. She walked past him towards the window. "You got my letter?"

"Yes."

Her face was averted. Her voice had not the bantering note with which she had spoken at her entry. "You never answered it."

"Well, I'd just seen you—just before I got it."

She was looking out of the window. "Why haven't you been up?"

"Oh—I don't know. I was coming."

"Well, I had to come," she said. He made no reply. He could think of none to make.

III

She turned sharply away from the window and came towards him, radiant again, as her entry.

"Well I like you best when you're thinking. You puzzle, don't you, Marco? You've got a funny old head. I believe you live in your old head, you know. Puzzling things. Clever, boast! I wish I could live in mine."

And she gave a note of laughter. "Where do you live, Nona?"

"I don't live. I just go on"—she paused—"flotsam."

Strange word to use, strangely spoken!

It seemed to Sabre to drop with a strange, detached effect into the conversation between them. His habit of visualizing inanimate things caused him to see in that word, between them at their feet, and from the door dropped into it, rippled that came to his feet upon his margin of the pool and to her feet upon hers.

He took the word away from its personal application. "I believe that's rather what I was thinking about when you came, Nona. About how we just go on—flotsam. Don't you know on a river where it's tidal, or on the seashore at the turn, the mass of stuff you see there, driftwood and spruce foam and stuff, just floating there, uneasily, brought in and left there—from somewhere—and then presently the tide begins to take it and it's drawn off and moves away and goes—somewhere. Arrives and floats and goes. That's mysterious, Nona."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Nancy bought a doll with her dime in the five-and-ten-cent store, and Nick bought a whistle. It had taken them hours to decide.

It was Nick who suddenly remembered their errand. "We'll have to hurry now, Nancy," he said, sticking the red under his arm and making for the door. "We shouldn't have stayed so long in here. We're not a third of the way over this mountain yet."

"Wasn't it funny about the dimes, Nick?" said Nancy, trotting along beside him. "How do you s'pose they got in our pockets?"

"Magic, I'll bet," replied Nick. "No more stories for me! I'll bet Twelve Toots sent those dimes."

"Mebbe," said Nancy thoughtfully. But no sooner had they got outside and started along the path over the mountain again than another five-and-ten-cent store appeared. There it stood in all its tempting glory of red paint and gold letters, close up beside the road.

At the same time Nancy's pink fingers touched a hard object in her pocket which she immediately hauled out and discovered to be another dime.

Of course Nick found one, too. Nick had been right. The dimes were magic. They had the power to make people who owned them forget time and everything else.

"Oh, this is different!" said Nancy. "It's a candy store." And she stopped to gaze at

SUPREME COURT

FROM RICHLAND COUNTY.
R. I. Dougherty, Plaintiff and Appellant, vs. James Cox Davis, Special Agent of the President, Defendant and Respondent.

SYLLABUS:
1. A railway company owes a duty, not only to passengers but also to those who come to meet incoming or accompany departing passengers, to keep its station platform reasonably clear and free from obstacles by which such persons are liable to be injured.
2. A person engaged in the business of transporting passengers and their baggage between two depots situated upon two different lines of railway in the same village and who has been so engaged for a considerable period of time with the knowledge and acquiescence of the carrier is an invitee upon the station premises and the carrier owes him a duty to use reasonable care for his safety.
3. In the instant case it is held that the implied invitation extended by the carrier to the person engaged in such transportation business extends not only to the particular premises where his bus was generally placed near the depot platform, but also to the waiting rooms in the depot and to the station platform.

4. Questions of negligence and proximate cause are generally questions of fact for the jury. They become questions of law only when the evidence is such that different minds cannot reasonably draw different conclusions either as to the facts or the deductions to be drawn from the facts.

From a judgment of the district court of Richland county, Allen, J., plaintiff appeals.

Reversed.
Opinion of the court by Christianson, J. Grace, Ch. J., concurring specially. J. A. Slattery, W. E. Purcell, W. S. Lauder, all of Wahpeton, N. D., attorneys for appellant.
Ed. L. Grantham of Aberdeen, S. D., Young, Conny & Young, of Fargo, N. D., attorneys for respondent.

FROM NELSON COUNTY.
Susie Pickles, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. John Anton, Defendant and Appellant.

SYLLABUS:
1. An action will lie in this state for the malicious prosecution, without probable cause, of a proceeding the object of which is to have a person adjudged insane and committed to the state insane asylum.

2. For the purpose of showing the malice of the defendant in instituting such inquisition of lunacy against the plaintiff, the personal relations previously existing between the parties may be shown.

3. Where the charge of insanity (which forms the basis of an action for malicious prosecution) is based upon the alleged destruction of certain property, it is proper to show any facts and circumstances surrounding such destruction which tend to show the reason for the alleged destruction or which tend to throw any light upon the mental condition of the person who was so charged with having committed such alleged insane act. It is also competent to show whether the defendant in making the charge of insanity, to the public officials fully and correctly informed such officers of such facts and circumstances.

4. For reasons stated in the opinion it is held that in this case it cannot be said as a matter of law that the defendant had probable cause for instituting the inquisition for lunacy, that the prosecution thereof was not malicious, or that the verdict returned by the jury is excessive.

From a judgment of the district court of Nelson county, Cooley, J., defendant appeals.

Affirmed.
Per Curiam opinion.
Robinson, J., dissenting.
Bangs, Hamilton & Bangs, of Grand Forks, N. D., attorneys for appellant.
Cuthbert, Middaugh & Smythe, of Duluth, Minn., and Frick, Roberts & Burke, of Lakota, N. D., attorneys for respondent.

From Bowman County.
Ernest C. Bragonier, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs.

Brougham Stevenson Defendant and Appellant.

SYLLABUS:
Because of fraud, misrepresentation and want of consideration the trial court gave judgment cancelling two promissory notes and a mortgage made by the plaintiff to the defendant; held that the judgment is in accord with convincing evidence.

Appeal from the District Court of Bowman County; Hon. Frank T. Lemke, Judge.

Affirmed.
Opinion of the Court by Robinson, J. Grace, Ch. J., and Bronson, J., specially concurring.
Theo. B. Torkelson, Bowman, Attorney for Appellant.
Emil Scow, Bowman, Attorney for respondent.

FROM GOLDEN VALLEY COUNTY.
J. D. Halstead, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs.

Missouri Slope Land & Investment Company, a corporation, A. L. Martin, and Mary J. McGilivray, Defendants and Appellants.

SYLLABUS:
1. A party who asserts error on appeal must show the existence thereof clearly and affirmatively from the record itself.

2. All conflicting interpretation will be resolved in favor of the validity of the action of the trial court, and where, on any reasonable contingency in the state of the record, the decision below might have been valid such contingency will be presumed.

3. In the instant case it is held that a judgment rendered, after the filing of the remittitur in the district court, upon a motion based on all proceedings formerly had in the action is not shown to be erroneous by the record presented on appeal.

4. For reasons stated in the opinion it is held that the trial court erred in allowing interest on certain annual installments stipulated to be paid by the defendants under a written agreement in suit, and the judgment is modified by disallowing such items.

From a judgment of the District

Court of Golden Valley County, Pugh, J., defendants' appeal.

Affirmed.
Per Curiam opinion.
Grace, Ch. J., concurring in the result.
Robinson, J., dissenting.

W. H. Stutsman of Mandan, N. D., and L. A. Simpson, of Dickinson, N. D., attorneys for appellants.

Adams recently defeated Roy Conley, claimant of the Pacific Coast welterweight title in a 15-round bout.

As a lightweight Adams found some of the leaders in the east, including Johnny Dundee.

Adams' next bout is set for April 18 in Battle when he meets Pete Bross of Great Falls. Bross weighs 152; Adams' weight is 147.

Baseball Practice Brings Out 42 Men at A. C.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—Spring athletics got under way with a rush at the State Agricultural College here this year, with three coaches directing about 114 men in baseball, track and spring football.

Head Coach Stanley Borleske is putting the emphasis on baseball and is trying to line up a stiff schedule for his team. Carleton College at Northfield has been asked for two games and it is hoped to secure a date with St. Thomas College.

Coach Borleske has his eye on b'g'er arm, however—the University of Minnesota.

F. L. Watkins, baseball coach is

WOMAN GOLFER HITS 'EM LIKE RUTH

The baseball used in the majors last season was a mighty lively article, but it is a joke when compared to the little golf ball.

One day last summer Babe Ruth hit a fast one and sent it far up into the right center bleachers at the Polo Grounds.

It was a terrific wallop. The fans in New York are still talking about it. The ball traveled 600 feet. Of course there is no telling how far the ball would have gone had not the bleachers been in the way.

training his men especially in stealing, squeeze plays and hit and run work and hopes to build up a fast and tricky organization. He has veterans working out for most of the positions except that of catcher. For this position he is training four recruits.

"We are willing to play any College baseball team in this part of the country," Mr. Borleske said. He added that the Aggies have been unable to secure a date with the State University at Grand Forks.

The football men are working on all fundamental plays, he said, blocking, tackling, passing, falling on the ball, kicking and sprinting.

Forty-two men have signed up for baseball, according to the coach, 30 for track and 35 to 40 for football.

JUST FOR THE SPORT OF IT

Philadelphia baseball fans have an exciting season ahead. Both teams hope to get out of last place.

STANLEY COVELESKIE, CLEVELAND'S STAR PITCHER, SAYS HE IS THROUGH EXPERIMENTING. THIS YEAR HE INTENDS TO STICK TO THE FAST BALL AND SPLITTER. NOW IF HE WILL RUN OUT OF SALIVA AMERICAN LEAGUE BATERS WILL BE SATISFIED.

"Goose" Goslin, highly touted Washington recruit, broke training and was suspended before the season ever opened. All of which seems to prove that he has been properly nicknamed.

Kai Sans, who had a big season on the turf in 1921, is conceded more than a Chinaman's chance to win the Louisville derby.

If this rain continues throughout the south a lot of magnates will be for keeping the athletes north and doing their training by radio with points south.

Wonder if the fact that the Cleveland club took Umpire Chill south had anything to do with the frost the spring training trip has proved to be.

Ty Cobb says he intends to keep his veteran pitchers south until a few days before the opening of the season and then rush them north. No one should be more familiar with those southern railroad schedules than Mr. Cobb.

A star college athlete is in danger of being declared ineligible because he is too far advanced in his studies. Once again proving there are exceptions to every rule.

Max Flack, Chicago outfielder, was hit by a pitched ball recently and suffered a fractured skull. Yet some Chicago critics have accused Flack of lacking brains.

Nick Altrock insists golf has become popular with ball players because it opens a new field for alibis.

Latv had is the watch with two hour hands for railroad and daylight-saving time.

DEMPSEY IS READY FOR ANY OF THEM

Champion Says He Will Meet Any Fighter in World, Insisting Only That Some Reliable Promoter Handle the Bout

BY BOB DORMAN.

New York, April 8.—You know my first name is Jack," and the heavyweight champion grinned. "And it is the fact that will decide whom I'll fight next."

We were sitting in his dressing room waiting for the bell to call him to the stage of the Hippodrome, where Dempsey is putting on his act.

He had just finished a careful scanning of the results of the NEA vote on an opponent to meet him in the next heavyweight title match.

Still smiling, he continued:

"It sort of seems that the fans want me to meet Willis or Gibbons.

"Well, it doesn't make any difference to me.

"Bring any of 'em on. White or black, yellow or brown, American or Chinaman, it's all one to me.

"All I ask is that some reliable promoter handle the match.

"None of these fly-by-night birds who try to promote a fight on a shoe-string, propose to hold it somewhere and then find it banned, and finally end up by getting the fight banned all over the country.

"I want some promoter to handle the affair who knows where he stands and who can guarantee that he can hold the fight at the time and place he proposes.

"Any responsible man who will offer to promote a match on the right basis will have no difficulty in getting my John Hancock."

To all of which Kearns gave his emphatic approval.

Dempsey shows absolutely no signs of going back. On the contrary, he

TWO STAR TIGER RECRUITS

The Detroit club feels that in Johnson and Pilette the Tigers have picked up the two most promising recruits of the year.

Despite the fact that the two rookies cost Owner Navin $40,000 in a real money and several players he feels that the transaction will prove worth while.

Both are right handers. Of the two Johnson has made the better showing so far. He had practically earned his place as a regular.

An injury which, it is believed, broke a couple of small bones in his wrist will probably set him back at least a month in his work.

DODGERS HAVE GOOD DEFENSE

Brooklyn Club Is Well Fortified With Excellent Substitutes

The strength of a ball club is rated by the ability of its substitutes to deliver when called on.

The Brooklyn club appears to be well fortified this year in every position. Last year the Dodgers were sadly lacking in this respect.

Pobbie has secured enough good infield talent to make a shift he has been trying to accomplish for five years.

That is placing Ivy Olson at second where the old war horse will have less territory to cover and a shorter throw, leaving the shortstop for a younger and faster man.

Sam Crane, bought from the Reds for $7,500, looks to have the inside grip on the job, but he is being hard-pressed by the rejuvenated Chuck Ward.

Jimmy Johnston, 320 hitter and the club's best base runner last year, will start at third, but if he falters in fielding, Andy High, the fast little recruit from Memphis, is there to jump him.

Robb's is sweet on High, who has been going great guns in the practice and makes an ideal leadoff man. If High crowds Johnston, the latter is slated to be Olson's understudy at second and may yet be the regular keystone guardian should Ivy falter.

Given Ray Schmandt, the regular first sacker, has a rival in Sam Post, who was farmed out as a pitcher last year and returned a promising first baseman.

Post is a left-handed thrower and has been compared to Jake Daubert when that star broke in with the Dodgers. Sam hits them hard and far. In the offing is Hal Janvrin, who is being touted as the best all-around utility man extant.

Turtle Mountains An Extension of Missouri Highlands

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—The Turtle Mountains, that peculiar formation which rises above the surrounding country in Bottineau and Rolette Counties and extends north into Canada, is in reality an extension of the Missouri Highlands or the Great Plains heights of Western North Dakota according to Prof. A. G. Leonard of the State University here. The present valley, through which the present Mouse river flows, first south and then north, and which divides the mountains from the Western highlands, was cut by prehistoric rivers, according to Mr. Leonard.

"The name Turtle Mountains," said Prof. Leonard, when asked to define the geological history of the high mass of ground, "is applied to the high, rough, plateau-like area occupying a portion of northern Bottineau and Rolette counties, North Dakota, and extending across the boundary into Canada. The Mountains have a length of over forty miles, a width of twenty-five miles and rise 400 to 600 feet above the surrounding plain. Some of the higher points such as Butte St. Paul rise 2,300 feet above the sea. The general elevation of the plateau is from 2,000 to 2,100 feet above sea level.

"The Turtle Mountains were once a part of the Missouri Plateau or Great Plains region of western North Dakota but have been separated from the mainland by long continued erosion. The Tertiary strata which underlie the plateau formerly extended as far east as the Turtle Mountains and doubtless farther, but have been swept away by the rivers which caused the denudation of the region before the ice sheet invaded North Dakota and left a mantle of drift. The Mountains thus form an outlier lying 80 miles beyond the escarpment, marking the present boundary of the Missouri Plateau. The intervening depression is the nearly level plain which formed the bed of the old Lake Souris, which is now traversed by the Mouse River as it flows north to join the Assiniboine in Manitoba.

"During the Glacial Period the Turtle Mountains, along with most of the state, were overlain by the ice sheet and received a thick deposit of drift which covered the preglacial surface, burying it to a depth of 100 to 200 feet or over so that no small part of their height is due to the glacial till. Over a large portion of this highland the topography is distinctly that of the terminal moraine with its very rough hilly surface and large number of lakes. The region formerly was covered with timber, but the land has of late years been largely cleared for farming.

Certificate of Valuation
New York, N. Y., March 2, 1922

To the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of North Dakota

Gentlemen:—

We have completed our computation of what the aggregate of the reserves would be, by the American Experience Table and 4% interest, being the aggregate of the usual individual tabular reserves on that standard according to the Select and Ultimate method, and we find that the aggregate reserve so computed is $2,497,137.00. As your other liabilities on December 31, 1921, were $25,123.31, this makes a total of $2,522,260.31 as against assets of $2,799,069.78, leaving a surplus of $276,804.47 and giving a percentage of solvency of 110.97%.

Respectfully submitted,

When?

"The greatest secret of success in life is to be ready when opportunity comes."

When will opportunity come? No one can say. That is why the man who is constantly prepared is usually the most successful.

Part of the mission of a helpful bank is to assist its patrons in accumulating surplus funds—funds usually needed when opportunity comes.

In this bank, we welcome the small depositor and share his pride as his surplus increases and he feels the strength and security which a bank account gives.
